Are solar panels free?

You may see some solar panel companies advertise their panels as "free" or "no cost." In most cases, these companies are describing a solar lease or solar power purchase agreement (PPA) type of program. Under these agreements, the company installs solar panels on your roof or property for no upfront to you; hence, the "free" terminology.

Do low-income solar programs offer free solar panels?

Low-income solar programs don't typically provide completely free solar panels, but they can greatly reduce installation costs. Most of the programs provide rebates or grants to cover the majority of rooftop solar installation costs for qualified applicants, but there may still be some costs or payments required.

Does the federal government offer free solar panels?

The federal government does not provide free solar panels, but does provide incentives that reduce the cost of going solar. You can go solar with no upfront cost by taking out a $0-down loan, signing a lease or PPA, or subscribing to a community solar farm. Of the no upfront cost solutions, $0-down loans provide the best long-term savings.

Are "free" solar panels a good idea?

The concept of "free" or "no-cost" solar panels really is too good to be true. "Free" solar panels are essentially rented from solar companies. While you will reap the benefits of cheaper electricity bills through solar power, you do not own the panels; the solar company does. Once your lease agreement is up, the panels will be removed.

Can free solar panels bring you in on a deal of lifetime?

Sunlight is one of the most widely available resources on the planet. With recent investments and advances in solar energy technology, more Americans than ever before can harness the sun's rays and power up their homes and businesses. Riding this historic trend, some are even claiming they can bring you in on a deal of lifetime: free solar panels.

Are "free" solar panels a scam?

However, it's important to note that "free" solar panels are not always a scam, but they do require careful consideration. These "free" solar panels are typically offered through solar panel leases or power purchase agreements (PPAs), which allow individuals to install solar panels without the high expense.
